ANNUAL PUBLICATION OF
THE MEDICAL COLLEGE OF VIRGINIA
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA
Dedication

U. S. A. BASE HOSPITAL NO. 45
(McGuire Unit)

In the opening of a second world-wide conflict, it is only fitting that we pay tribute to a branch of our great armed forces that so valiantly upheld the tradition of The Medical College of Virginia in the last World War, and is destined to play a vital role in the present conflict.

Base Hospital No. 45, commonly known as the McGuire Unit, was organized as a Red Cross Unit under the auspices of the College and was considered the greatest single contribution of the Medical College during the first World War. During the hospitals five months stay at Toul, France, seventeen thousand, four hundred thirty-eight patients were cared for, nearly half of these coming through in that never-to-be-forgotten September when an American Army wiped out the St. Mihiel salient.

A comprehension of the size of the plant may be gathered from the fact that at that time the capacity of one floor was greater than the capacity of any single hospital in Richmond and the total capacity greater than the total of all Richmond hospitals.

Associated with the little band of doctors which cared for the army of patients were nurses and wardmen whose unconquerable spirit and boundless devotion to their duty overthrew obstacles seemingly insurmountable.

The results speak for themselves!
Medical College of Virginia, active in the conflict between the States and the last World War, pledges anew itself and the wholehearted efforts of its student body to the defense of the flag we love and the principles for which they stand—LOYALTY TO COUNTRY, LOYALTY TO OUR FELLOWMEN AND LOYALTY TO OURSELVES.

Salute To Virginia

Virginia, named after Elizabeth, the “Virgin Queen” of England, long loved for her rich tradition and natural scenic beauty is a state with many nicknames which, are themselves, a revelation of her history.

“Old Virginia,” her first, was to distinguish her from the New England Colonies, which were in colonial times often styled, “New Virginia.”

The State documents sent by the King of England to the Governor were headed: “To the Colony and Dominion of Virginia,” so that “Old Dominion” became a frequent term for this colony and is often used.

As Virginia was the first of the original states, she was also styled, “The Mother of the States,” and later, after she had given seven Presidents to the nation, she was called, “The Mother of Presidents.”
"Better to grind the ax till noon than to cut all day with a dull ax"—so runs an old adage which may have point for those of us who may have a deep urge to immediately participate in the current world emergency. It becomes daily more obvious that both our armed forces and civilians at home will need every possible graduate from our health-service fields who can be made available.

Our institution has a notable record for service, both direct and indirect, in national emergencies of the past. Somehow we have always found the way to do our part and we shall find it again. Superb self-control may now be the measure of our strength but if that is required we shall be equal to it.

General Hospital 45 is organized and waiting; other special assignments may be expected—perhaps some for Richmond and Virginia.

The present conflict seems to involve many factors unpredictable in the light of past national experiences, suggesting all the more the completest possible preparedness on every front. To some of us that may give new responsibilities within the institution itself. One conviction is positive, that every one of us, of the student body and of the staff, can be counted upon to find his duty wherever it lies and to discharge it to his utmost ability.

Sincerely yours,

W. T. SANGER,
President.

moral stamina to face the blow with equanimity? We would lay down our lives for our country, certainly, but, how about giving up our time and blood? It's a big job. Can we take it? We wonder.
Greer Baughman was born in Richmond in 1874, the only child of a Confederate soldier, and received his early education at Norwood's School in his home town. From then he went to the University of Virginia and returned to complete his undergraduate medical studies at the Medical College of Virginia, from which he graduated in 1897. For a year following he was an Intern at the City Hospital, after which he spent two years abroad in the great medical centers of Europe—Berlin, Vienna, Dublin and Dresden.

His extensive studies ended and Dr. Baughman came back to Richmond to practice, and in addition, taught at the Medical College of Virginia in many capacities until 1913. At this time he was made Associate Professor of Obstetrics and two years later accepted full Professorship and served faithfully in this capacity until his death in 1941.

Dr. Baughman was quite active in Richmond in civic and medical affairs, being one of the founders of Stuart Circle Hospital in 1913, member of the Richmond Academy of Medicine, and its President in 1917. However, his activities and recognition were not limited only to Richmond, but extended to state and national medical affairs. He was a member of the Virginia Medical Society, the Southern Surgical Association, the American Medical Association and a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and the American Association of O. B. and G. Y. N. His fraternities were Phi Delta Theta, Pi Mu and Theta Nu Epsilon. He also served his country with distinction as a Captain in Base Hospital 45 in World War 1.
Class History

Juniors! What a welcome word to the members of the Class of '43, especially in view of the Sophomore year, through which we struggled and finally passed. In the first few weeks we learned, with no little regret, that our accumulated knowledge was indeed inadequate to cope with our new problems.

Pediatrics and Physical Diagnosis: There certainly was a lot we didn't pick up in the book. This business of the Schick and Dick test really is confusing. By the way, just how many square miles does the City Home cover?

D. and S.: Well, so veins are important after all. It certainly is embarrassing the way your hand shakes—after all, you're not sticking yourself. Anyhow, that doesn't matter when it comes to bismuth if you have a good "swing" hand-washing in his clinic.
Class History

G. Y. N. and G. U.: Here you certainly need a profound knowledge of Bacteriology and large quantities of normal saline. This is the place to become acquainted with the benefits to be obtained from five Elliott treatments.

E. N. T.: This service brings you face to face with a head mirror. This gadget gives you a headache and twists your neck. Here, also, you and ephedrin nose bid each other a fond farewell.
Class History

O. B.: This is the time to master the art of complete blood count and a urinalysis, to say nothing of the P. S. P. During this month you have to stick by the telephone night and day.

Medicine: This is a good place to test your diagnostic skill, as well as your ability to write "histories and physicals," in the approved manner. Diabetic urines claim their share of your attention too.
THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

Class History

September, 1941, and a motley group hailing from north, east, south and west met for the first time as Freshman Medical Students at M. C. V. New friends, new classes and professors soon had us occupied and we were at last on the road to becoming medical men and women.

Who can ever forget bone, not being able to see the "trees for the forest," embryology and our first days in anatomy lab? And so the time passed quickly, bringing with it hours of studying and in labs, peering through a microscope at everything from a minute bacteria to a slice of heart muscle, headaches and good times. At last, as the final days of the term appeared, we had our first real week of examinations, but we managed to get through them.
Class History

It would be impossible to talk about our Freshman year and not mention those who were our professors, always ready to give us a hand and an encouraging word. Never too busy to help us in any way possible. Above all, we should pay our esteem to one who at all times was ready to talk to us and whose little meetings with us not only were instructive, but helped us out of many a period of "the blues."
Class History

Sophomore students and stethoscopes, ophthalmoscopes and sphygmometers! Hoping soon to be Juniors and with the shortened course which will mean that we will be separated sooner than ever. Looking back will indeed recall many a day spent at M. C. V. these first two years.
THE FRESHMAN CLASS

September 2, 1941, marked the 104th Registration Day for the Freshmen at the Medical College of Virginia, and all the lads and lassies caught the thrill of the hustle and bustle, greeting new friends and old ones. The following day we began two weeks of orientation in which we found our places and part in the machinery of Medical School.
Class History

On the day of convocation at the Monumental Episcopal Church, September 15, Dr. Sanger impressed the old and the new students with their grave responsibility to their country and their people in these trying days torn by conflicting ideals and concepts. Each left the service with renewed determination buried in his heart to do his best during his sojourn in Medical College.
The outbreak of hostilities on our nation on December 7, 1941, and declaration of war the following day served as an added impetus to the seriousness of purpose of our studies and the responsibilities that rested upon our shoulders.

We must pay tribute to our professors who have made our work a joy and not a task and who have helped tide us over the rough spots when our spirits were low.

It's been a long time now since that first coecal cube and that first little "anatomically perfect" incisor. Yes, it's all history now; and as we look back we recall in the Sophomore year the long hours spent in the lab working against time.
Class History

Some of us finding it easy and striving to get ahead and others trying so pitifully hard merely to keep up. We recall in the Junior year the greatest epoch in our class history as we entered the clinic for the first time and began working on real live patients.
As we look back over these past four years, we find not only the hard work and tedious study, that make up a dental student's life, but through it all we find memories of "bull sessions" and social activities, of political arguments and lasting friendships. All these things are part of the history of our class.
Class History

Now we, the Class of 1942, are graduating and going out into a dark and troubled world at war. We leave all these familiar scenes and begin a new life. A life to be devoted to service to our profession and to our country.

Class History

Up from our Freshman year, with its memories of cadavers, wax teeth and coecal cubes. Upward and onward through our Sophomore year, leaving behind us jars of autopsy specimens, recondensed gold foils, dozens and dozens of castings that just didn't fit and those that fit beautifully. Upward, ever hopeful, into our Junior year.

Remember that proud day we put on our spotless white coats and strutted up the stairs to that inner "sanctum sanctorum," the dental clinic, dragging our cases and engines behind us. "Now, fellows, remember it's just another tooth. Get in there and break down the enamel and scoop out the decay."
Little characteristic phrases of our instructors will linger on in our minds: “There are certain important factors we must keep in mind in this x-ray work.”—“The balance of those dentures reminds me of my bank account.”—“It’s a hard case, but we’re the ones who can do it.”—“Sharpen your explorer and I’ll find caries for you”—and many others.
Class History

In September, 1940, we the class of forty-four, started out upon the most promising journey of our life. After a few steps several of us decided that we were on the wrong road and decided to turn back. The remaining thirty-two of us continued on together, bravely fighting through the perils of anatomy, prosthetics, biochemistry, bacteriology, oral anatomy and histology. At the end of the first quarter of our journey we found that four of us were unable to continue and these were forced to turn back.
Class History

After a brief rest we began the second quarter of our journey. Here we were joined by four new travelers with the same destination as ours. We slowly fought through the new obstacles, crown and bridge, operative, prosthetics, physiology, pathology and pharmacology, which had been placed before us. As we came near the end of the second quarter of our journey we realized that we were approaching the half-way mark in our efforts to obtain that highly cherished degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery.
Class History

We, the Freshman Class of 1941, are initiating our study of dentistry in a period of world chaos. At no other time has a Freshman Class begun its studies and activities under such precarious circumstances. Yet, we enter our chosen profession with spirits high and an earnest determination to do our job and to do it well.

It was a happy day that we, the largest Freshman Dental Class on record in the archives of M. C. V., assembled for our first lecture. We were all quite curious!
But it wasn't long before we found ourselves an integral part of this new routine and accustomed ourselves to it accordingly.

We are not a class that believes in all work and no play. We entered the Intramural Basketball Tournament and are proud that we won the tournament to bring the trophy to the Dental School for the first time.

may be written in history today that the Senior Class of Pharmacy of 1942 will do its part in making the profession of Pharmacy something to be proud of.
Class History

A Junior in Pharmacy! What a proud feeling it is to be privileged to say that. It has taken us three long years to attain that title. We often look back on that momentous day in September when we walked timidly up those few steps of McGuire Hall as Freshmen; then, boldly as Sophomores; and now bravely as Juniors.

Our path has not been an easy one, but one full of pitfalls and obstacles which we had to meet and overcome. However, it hasn’t always remained that way, but has contained many pleasures in the form of dances and other school activities. These have kept us from becoming "dull boys." We extend sincere thanks to our professors in appreciation of all that they have done for us. Their untiring efforts on our behalf have done much toward making us realize the responsibilities of a pharmacist.
As Juniors, three-fourths the way along our chosen path, we wish to express our prayers:

"Please, dear Father, help us, the Junior Class in Pharmacy, to be strong and brave, to meet and to overcome the obstacles that are to confront us in peacetime or in wartime. Make us successful in our work that we may do our part in helping to relieve the suffering and pain of mankind. Amen."
The Sophomore Class

Class History

Forty-two strong, we entered the Medical College of Virginia. Everyone of us was filled with the ambitious characteristic of youth. We were determined to enter the field of pharmacy and help the human race with our research and service for their health. Twenty-eight of our original number now remain—leaving the more determined and the more fit. May no more fall by the wayside, because as we read our newspapers, we realize that after this disastrous war is over, our education will be invaluable to the world.
As we look back on the last two years, we realize that those days which seemed like drudgery were actually fun, and that those friendships which started at the beginning of our Freshman year will develop into lifetime bonds of companionship. These are the people whom we will be proud to know in the future. Some of our country's most outstanding men are members of our profession and we are, as they, dedicated to public service—for the aid of our fellow-men.

Class History

Half a hundred of us were there, that marked day of September 17, 1941—alias Freshman Pharmacy Students. Fifty sober-minded students sat in the pews of Grace Episcopal Church and viewed, for the first time, the faculty that we were to be with the next four years of our lives. Grave, grey-haired professors attired in their long black robes, as solemn as judges, sat pensively before us. Then, too, arranged around the rostrum, were younger men, who sat listening attentively.

The sight of the upper-classmen frightened us, for we wondered whether we would be able to combat the difficulties and hardships that they, our fellow students, had gone through before us. Nevertheless, by the closing of the convocation ceremonies, a sudden spark of hope had arisen within us.
The friendliness of the faculty and student body tended to relieve and comfort our nervousness, for they knew how we felt on first entering such an institution of high learning, having been over the same road themselves. Memorable too, was the cordial invitation which we, the Freshman Class, received from the Mortar and Pestle Club. This organization, more than anything else, tended to unite and bring us into closer association with the other students in Pharmacy.

and faith in our hearts through all the trials of the years, we may consider our lives well-spent, and graciously thank each person at M. C. V., who has had any part in helping us achieve the goal we set for ourselves on that day we entered nursing.
Time speeds ahead in the clinic, in the hospital and on the operating room table with us wondering how we have struggled through the past and if we will continue to struggle through the future.

Orientation Period was the first event that started our blood pressure to rise. That week we had aptitude tests and went through that difficult process of making a bed three different ways after having been shown only once. We survived Orientation Period without any serious damage to our nervous system. Still, we had to wait and hope for a few days, which seemed like years, before we knew if we had passed our work. It was a pleasant surprise when we received our letter of acceptance to the School of Nursing of the Medical College of Virginia. At once we had to be vaccinated against smallpox and had to take many vaccines which would make us immune to almost everything except the knowledge to which we were to be exposed in the classroom and the laboratory.

Then came the time for us to go on the wards and put into practice the various procedures that Miss Moyer and Miss Nicholson had demonstrated in the classroom. The first morning on duty found us all scared for fear that our sheets would not be equal to the inch on both sides of the bed or that the supervisor... would think us a disgrace to the profession. Really, they were not so bad. Maybe it was because they had not forgotten their preclinical days.

With the help of our supervisors and other personnel on the wards, we progressed rapidly until we reached our first goal, receiving our caps. On duty the next day, we held our heads high with pride—perhaps too high at times for practically every Freshman either lost her cap or had it knocked askew that first day.

We have overcome many obstacles and are sure to conquer many more. Now our next goal is that black band on our caps which will signify that we are full-fledged seniors. Then will follow, all too soon, that dreaded State Board Examination. Stand by, friends, until next year and look up to the Class of '43 to see the success we are sure to obtain with Miss Gilbert as our sponsor.
Preclinical Class

History

Dark storm clouds from the east warned them: world leaders challenged them as being a generation with a doubtful future. Nevertheless, theoretically sophisticated, girls began to arrive from nine states when the hot, drowsy summer was almost over. They were willing to accept the warnings and challenges as inspirations. Behind them lay their carefree days in high school and college. Orientation period with its I.Q. tests and aptitude tests. Soon they were regimented in Memorial Hall with kind Mrs. Dillard as Housemother. Somewhat dismayed and fearful of being lost in the rush, they found themselves being advised and readvised by faculty members.

Monumental Church, with convocation exercises for the four schools of the college, made them feel very important and their pride lifted when they heard the addresses of welcome.

Classes began to roll around more often, and, the girls wondered if they were really going to wear those uniforms and be assigned to duty. Feeling very self-confident and self-sufficient they could hardly wait for the day to come when they could begin their work as ministering angels. Imagine the thrill for them when the last week of October came and they were at last assigned to duty on the wards. But this joy was somewhat short-lived; it was replaced by a deeper sense of helplessness and insignificance to do the big things they had planned. As a result of this change, the preclinicals underwent a metamorphosis bringing with it a new outlook.

The Hallowe’ en party given by the Juniors was really quite wonderful—gave them a chance to get acquainted with their older sisters.

Time had sped swiftly. Thanksgiving came with its two days off, giving the preclinicals a chance to relax. This short period of relaxation was followed by a month spent in diligent and faithful study because finals were looming ahead. This slaving was readily forgotten when they boarded the trains and buses to go home for a week during Christmas holidays. That week seemed very short. They had so little time to relate to all their acquaintances very many of their experiences.

Returning, they again plunged into study and work. Final exams, were over and they waited anxiously for the communiqué telling the news of their fate.

Today they stand, seventy strong, awakened to their need of pressing forward. Ahead and through the mists of time, they see horizons of worlds yet to be conquered.

Student Dietitians

He may live without books—for what is knowledge but grieving?
He may live without hope—for what is hope but deceiving?
He may live without love—for what is passion but pining?
But where is the man that can live without dining?

The ten student dietitians form a small but functional group at M. C. V., after four years of theoretical study in college, the twelve months training course offers practical experience in dietetics.

This group has representatives from eight different colleges, namely: William and Mary, Mary Washington, Madison College, Woman's College of University of North Carolina, Iowa State College, Georgia State College, Florida State College, Syracuse College.

Message from Student Body President

Our Student Government Organization of the Medical College of Virginia has a four-fold purpose, namely:

1. The promotion of college activities;
2. The promotion among the students of a more brotherly feeling for each other and a greater love for the college;
3. The settlement of all affairs which concern the best interests of the Student Body;
4. The attainment of those things which go to make the college greater in every way.

Needless to say the co-operation of each and every student on this campus makes possible the attainment and fulfillment of the purpose for which the Student Government was founded.

The Medical College of Virginia, as an institution of scientific learning and research, has occupied in the past, and continues to occupy, a stately position in the medical field in which each of us is proud and, I might add, rightly so.

It is, to some extent, this pride we hold which stimulates us to make our Student Government the best possible, and our student life together as interesting as it should be.

We can be thankful for a good year of working in harmony, and, as responsibilities arise, let us as members of a great Student Body, assume our duties as did those before us—without restraint.

Fred Maphis.
"It shall act as the representative of the Student Body in any situation when such representation is needed; and after proper hearing, it shall settle grievances or complaints arising between classes or student organizations affecting the Student Body as a whole."
"The honor system is a system of self-government whereby the students themselves eliminate from their body those who fail to deport themselves as honorable men or women in all of their college matters."
X-RAY

It would have been hard to ignore under the present circumstances that we are at war; it would be even harder to overlook our tradition and the role we students of M. C. V. and faculty will play in the future.

Thus, the 1942 X-Ray has attempted to paint for you within its limited pages, a comprehensive mural of your professional educational background, its many events and activities during your comparatively short pause at Medical College of Virginia. To you may it be a preambule to a bibliography of useful service and success.

It has not been an especially easy task, but if to you, in the present or future, its humble pages release a few moments of joy, the untiring efforts of the staff will not have been in vain.

This year the Skull and Bones has attempted to bring to its readers an accurate description of student and faculty activities. A special effort was made to include more items of interest to the students with no prejudice toward any one school.

Several new feature items were included during the year, always with an eye toward student interest. Also, attempted, and apparently with great success, were the gossip columns from each of the four schools. In this manner social activities of the entire school were tabulated each week amid such expressions as: "Oh! How did that get in there?" and "I wish I knew who that so and so is that writes the proctoscope."

The purpose and theme of the Skull and Bones this year has been "more news of the students by the students and for the students."

What success the Skull and Bones has attained must be contributed to the splendid and efficient manner in which the staff has co-operated with the Editor. They worked hard and long; in many instances making sacrifices to give to M. C. V. a publication worthy of its name.

For this essential and co-operative effort on the part of both editorial and business staff, the Editor wishes to express his sincerest gratitude.

Athletics at Medical College of Virginia are not organized on a large competitive basis but are maintained purely for the physical and mental recreation of its students.

Basketball, both for girls and boys, baseball, ping pong, tennis and golf compose the activities. Students do not have facilities readily accessible for all these sports but through the unceasing efforts of Mr. Larrick, Dr. Little, Dr. Parker and others of the faculty, they are maintained.

The Athletic Association is supported and governed by the students and is available to the best efforts of any sport-minded boy or girl.

A great deal of practice time is not available for the perfection of the game, nevertheless this does not alter any the good sportsmanship and fine spirit enjoyed and displayed by the various teams and those whose veins are filled with good American sporting blood.

The M. C. V. Student Branch of the A. Ph. A. was organized February 25, 1942, to promote the professional and social interests of the students in the School of Pharmacy, as well as to uphold the aims of the national organization which was founded in 1852.
Just as to what this organization means to so many campuses in American Colleges, it means to students of the Medical College of Virginia. A well-rounded life is especially vital to the individual who is to uphold the integrity and advancement of his or her profession.

Under the competent leadership of Mr. Larrick, the Y. M. C. A. is doing much for the spiritual, mental and physical welfare of M. C. V. students, and in the future promises to play an even more prominent part in our school activities.
The Dames' Club is an organization of the wives of the students at M. C. V. This chapter was established in 1938 and is a member of the National Association of University Dames. The primary purpose of the Club is to promote friendship among the wives of the students. The Dames play Santa and Easter Bunny to the children at the Colored Crippled Children's Hospital, as well as plan constructive and educational programs for themselves.
The law of the survival of the fittest is most effectively operative in periods of stress and strain rather than in periods of ease.

In the periods of ease, when things are going easily on the upward trend, individuality has little opportunity to show itself. That is a biological principle. And when there are no difficulties to resist, individuals do not develop. When there is no pioneering effort to be maintained, the pioneers in thought, word and deed are not developed. But it is a biological principle which has shown itself to be true in other things than biology, that when stress comes, then the opportunity for individuals to succeed above their fellow shecomes greatest.

Scientists have two great faiths: One is that history and science teach that the progress of everything is upward. The second is that progress is not continuously upward, but proceeds periodically and that periodically there come times of stress and strain when conditions are unpleasant and difficult to bear; but those periods of stress and strain are the periods in which the finest individuals are developed. So that the development of the race, the group, the society, or whatever it is that is concurrent, goes forward fastest in the periods of stress and strain, when things are apparently difficult.

A period of stress may be inevitable for us here at M. C. V., as it may be in many other institutions of learning, but we shall remember that if it comes, it will bring opportunity for individuality and persistence, as well as capacity to succeed better than in any other period in our history.

This thought from your Alumni Association is left with you—that progress is bound to be onward and upward, and that in periods of uncertainty and stress when things appear difficult, we will have the survival of the fittest, and the very best leadership—this is the type of education for which M. C. V. stands.

A CAPITAL IDEA...

In most instances the medical practitioner cannot leave his family an established business as a source of livelihood. Only through the accumulation of income-producing capital can he project his earning power into the future for the benefit of those dependent upon him.

No plan as yet devised for creating income-producing capital can serve him so quickly and so surely as life insurance.

"There should be more competition and more recognition given to the per capita consumption of milk in communities," urges Dr. John L. Rice of New York City. "High milk consumption is as important a factor in community health as many other things to which great attention is given."

"IS THIS PRODUCT COUNCIL-ACCEPTED?"

This is the first question many physicians ask the detail man, when a new product is presented.

MEAD PRODUCTS, COUNCIL-ON-PHARMACY ACCEPTED:
- Mead's Oleum Percumarphum (liquid and capsules);
- Mead's Cod Liver Oil Fortified With Percumarph Liver Oil;
- Mead's Viosterol in Halibut Liver Oil (liquid and capsules);

- Mead's Viosterol in Oil;
- Mead's Standardized Cod Liver Oil;
- Mead's Halibut Liver Oil;
- Mead's Mineral Oil With Malt Syrup;
- Mead's Ascorbic (Cevitamic) Acid Tablets;

- Mead's Powdered Lactic Acid Milk Nos. 1 and 2; Alacta; Casce; Sober; Olac; Mead's Pectin-Agar in Dextri-Maltose.

If the detail man answers, "No," the doctor saves time by saying, "Come around again when the Council accepts your product."

If the detail man answers, "Yes," the doctor knows that the composition of the product has been carefully verified, and that members of the Council have scrutinized the label, weighed the evidence, checked the claims, and agreed that the product merits the confidence of the physician. The doctor can ask his own questions, and make his own decision about using the product, but not only has he saved himself a vast amount of time but he has derived the benefit of a fearless, expert, fact-finding body whose sole purpose is to protect him and his patient.

No one physician, even if he were qualified, could afford to devote so much time and study to every new product. His Council renders this service for him, freely. Nowhere else in the world is there a group that performs the functions so ably served by the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry and the Council on Foods.

Mead Johnson & Company cooperates with both Councils, not because we have to but because we want to. Our detail men can always answer you, "Yes, this Mead Product is Council-Accepted."

There are few fields where the necessity for progress—the demand for new ideas is as pronounced as in the production of school annuals. Here at Baughman, we take pride in not only keeping pace, but in setting the pace for changes in this highly progressive field. When you work with Baughman you work hand in hand with printing craftsmen who are on the alert for new and unusual ideas to offer to progressive editors.
